Board OKs landfill here

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The signs and angry sneers of protesters at the Madison County Board meeting Wednesday morning could not stop the board from approving a proposal to build a landfill and reclamation plant in Nameoki Township.

The 29-member board voted 15-13 to allow Environmental

Editorial, 2B

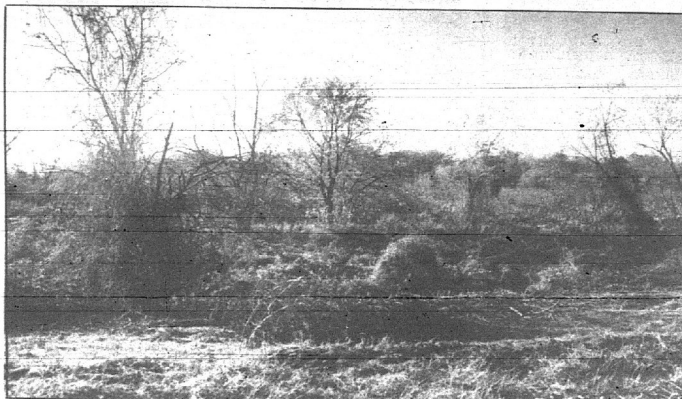

Control Systems Inc. to build its proposed 60-acre landfill and recycling center near the southern end of the Horseshoe Lake state recreation area.

All Quad City area board members except Vasek Ettimoff voted to approve the landfill, which would accept garbage from a 100-mile radius.

About 25 protesters carrying signs that read "No More Landfills" and "Just Say No to Environmental Control Systems" lined the walls of the county board meeting room.

Many conservationists and residents of Nameoki Township have spoken out against building a landfill in that area since it was proposed in September.

Some feel that there is no need for another landfill in Madison County and others fear the water table will be contaminated with waste disposal.

A CURRENT VIEW of the area where Environmental Control Systems Inc. plans to build its proposed 60-acre landfill and recycling center.

"I hope they (county board members) have to drink the water once this is done," said one protester after the vote.

The protesters were not allowed to address the board.

The landfill was approved on the following conditions:

•The recycling center be built and working before any materials are placed in the landfill.

•35 percent or more of the material in the landfill must be recycled.

Couple's death murder, suicide

GRANITE CITY — Police have concluded that the shooting deaths this weekend of a man and his girlfriend were the result of a murder-suicide.

According to Capt. Kip Pomeroy, all evidence and investigation indicate that Martin C. Evans, 22, shot Dawn Michelle Sugg, 20, with a 12-gauge shotgun and then took his own life with the same weapon. Pomeroy said the conclusion is based on a number of factors, including crime scene analysis and pathology reports.

Pomeroy said no motive has been established.

The bodies of Sugg and Evans were found at about 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the bedroom of a home they shared in the 2300 block of Lincoln Avenue. They were found by Gary Watkins, Evans' roommate and brother-in-law.

Sugg's body was found in bed and Evans' body was on the floor beside the bed, according to Pomeroy. He said the shotgun was found on the floor between them. Pomeroy said investigation showed the shotgun had been purchased by Evans in February 1988.

Pomeroy said each had been shot once in the head/neck area. He said a coroner's report said Evans and Sugg had been dead 12 or more hours when the bodies were found.

According to Pomeroy, the "best estimate" of the time of death is between midnight and 4 a.m. Saturday.

The two had last been seen by friends at Stages' nightclub in the south part of Madison at about 11:30 p.m. Friday, according to Carolyn Fisher, Evans' twin sister.

Fisher, who lives next door, said she had asked Watkins, who had been visiting her, to go ask Sugg if she could borrow a dress to wear to a wedding Saturday evening. Watkins then discovered the bodies.

The investigation was slowed by a delay in obtaining lab results, according to Police Chief Don Knight. He said part of that delay was attributable to the Veterans Day holiday.

Evans worked at Affiliated Metals in Granite City the past three months after two years of service in the Army.

Sugg was employed at Corral Liquor Store in Granite City. The two had resided at the Lincoln address for two months and were considering marriage, Fisher said.

A benefit fund has been established at Magna Bank in Granite City to help with the cost of Sugg's funeral.

Suspended teacher resigns

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A teacher at Granite City High School has resigned in the wake of a federal investigation into allegations of sexual misconduct involving students.

Upon the recommendation of Superintendent Gilbert Walmsley, the Granite City School Board voted unanimously Tuesday evening to accept the resignation of Austin Martin Gomez without regrets.

Walmsley said Gomez, who had been suspended with pay since Oct. 29, will no longer be employed by the school district.

The superintendent said district officials would continue to "cooperate to the fullest extent with any state or legal agencies investigating alleged inappropriate action" by Gomez.

The resignation is due to allegations of sexual misconduct with several students of the school, but not at the school. Officials would not say whether boys, girls or both are involved.

Granite City police, the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are all said to be investigating the allegations.

Reached by telephone Wednesday at his home in University City, Gomez told the Press-Record that he had no comment.

At least one report being investigated states that Gomez has been known to take students across the state line on trips not related to or authorized by the school district. Permission allegedly was obtained from parents.

Walmsley said that "Mr. Gomez did not ever take a trip where he was an approved faculty chaperone."

Gomez had been employed by the district since the 1985-86 school year as a teacher of Spanish. He had taught previously at the St. Louis Priory and University City high schools.

Murder charged in shooting

MADISON — An Eagle Park Acres man has been charged with murder in the fatal shooting Sunday night of a 22-year-old man near an apartment complex at 1511 Second St.

Reuben Thornton Jr., 25, of Hill Street was charged Tuesday with first-degree homicide by Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine. Thornton was arraigned before Madison County Associate Judge Michael Meehan and is being held without bond.

David Lewis Brandon, of Carver Street in Eagle Park Acres, was shot in the chest at approximately 9 p.m. Sunday while standing next to his pickup truck, parked outside the complex on Second Street. He fell to the pavement, apparently fatally wounded.

Taken by Campbell Ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, he was pronounced dead a short time later. It is believed that the murder weapon was a shotgun.

Thornton was arrested at 2 a.m. Monday at an apartment in the 200 block of Madison Avenue, Madison, after police had questioned a number of Second Street apartment residents and interrogated two material witnesses residing in that area.

Indicating no motive had been determined, authorities declined to verify reports of an earlier argument.

Anti-drug march on Eads Bridge

VENICE — A march against drug abuse will close Eads Bridge for 2½ hours Saturday as east meets west for a Project Clean Up rally.

The purpose, according to the permit, is to "make a joint statement, in the way of human presence, of our continuing struggle against drug trafficking and addiction."

Marchers will begin from both sides of the bridge at 12:30 p.m. Saturday and meet at the Illinois-Missouri state line, the middle of the Mississippi River.

The march will be followed by a service led by the Rev. C.V. Smith, pastor of the Original Missionary Baptist Church of St. Louis. The rally will last until 3 p.m.

"All citizens, clubs, organizations and churches are invited," said the Rev. John Henry Williams, a Project Clean Up chairman and Venice alderman.

Project Clean Up was founded by the Rev. O.V. Carter as a grassroots effort to combat the alcohol and drug abuse he saw plaguing his community.

Pontoon Beach delays zoning action in Chouteau Trace

By Bob Slate

Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — The Village Board postponed action Tuesday evening on a residential zoning request involving the Chouteau Trace area until a legal opinion is provided by Village Attorney Keith Jensen.

The village zoning board had recommended denial of proposal new housing after a hearing held Oct. 23.

The petitioner, David L. Jones of MIC Associates, wants zoning changed from general business to single-family residential along the south side of Whittell Drive and from general business to multiple-family residential on the north side.

The number of dwellings is of concern to school officials, who say there is no obvious way to finance school services from real estate taxes there.

The zoning board denied the request on the grounds that there are already too many apartments there.

Trustee Marvin Ribbing commented that Jones has already "significantly" invested in the property in that area, and this was not a quick, thrown-together plan. This is a working-out proposition of what to do with the land.

Ribbing wants a compromise.

Trustee Loren Madison moved that the trustees approve the recommendation not to rezone the property. Trustee Bob Douglas seconded the motion.

During a discussion, Douglas pointed out that the area is a tax increment financing (TIF) district, and he was not sure that the board could change the zoning in such a district. A TIF district is a redevelopment area with special tax laws to attract developers.

The Chouteau Trace TIF was established by ordinance citing the location as a "blighted area" and providing for tax abatements for potential developers.

Part of the procedure for becoming certified as a TIF district is the proposing of a specific development plan. The plan for Chouteau Trace originally proposed no single-family homes, officials said.

The plan did include 200 multi-family units, a hotel, six highway service units, a 200,000-square-foot retail center and 57 duplex residences.

Douglas brought the development plan to the attention of the trustees, saying, "There is no provision within the development plan for single-family homes. This tax increment district was created by the village and the development plan was approved by it."

"I'm not too sure how to proceed... because what (Jones) is proposing is in the development plan. And that plan has to be adhered to when you're

Officer appears on Donahue show

By Bonita Gower-Tillman
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS — Mayor Carl Officer was the sole panel guest Monday morning for the Phil Donahue show that addressed problems in East St. Louis.

Televised live locally, the show was part of a six-city "Donahue in the Heartland" tour.

The audience asked a variety of questions of Officer, including why he appeared to have an arrogant attitude and whether or not he lived in the city. But there were many verbal compliments for him and his performance as mayor.

Officer described his attitude as one of confidence in his abilities and intelligence, not arrogance.

He said that he lives in East St. Louis, but that because he is a single man he often does not sleep at his own home. Some members of the audience contended he resides at the Mansion House in St. Louis.

Donahue cited the city's poor financial condition, including the loss of City Hall to a man severely beaten by another prisoner in the City Jail in 1986.

Officer maintained that the city had been keeping its end of a payment schedule to pay the injured man, but that the city had been victimized. "We did all the right things, but we're being victimized by a ludicrous court system," he said.

He blamed many of the city's problems on racism and governmental agencies.

Lois Calvert, a former alderman, agreed. She said that the city's decline began under the administration of former Mayor Alvin Fields, before Officer was born.

Donahue said after the show that "racism is a lot like cancer. You don't always know you have it."

During the show, Donahue asked Officer why the East St. Louis riverfront had not been developed. Officer said he had been invited to the Missouri Athletic Club by St. Louis businessmen to discuss plans for the site. However, he said, every proposal would have been "sellout" because blacks would not have owned a share of the development.

"We don't need jobs as much as we need to have ownership in businesses," Officer said. "All I asked for was at least 25 percent ownership."

Several people in the audience said they thought the show went quite well and they were impressed and informed by Officer's responses.

Robert V. Cox, a retired police officer, said he had hoped the comments would focus more on problems faced by many communities across the nation.

Donna McAndrews of Fairview Heights said she came to the East St. Louis High School gymnasium out of curiosity and concern.

"The show was very informative to me because I was born and raised here," she said. "I learned a lot of good things about Mayor Officer. I graduated from East Side and I would really like to see the city turn around. I'm glad I came."

Bertha Anthony, an elementary school teacher in District 189, said she thought the show was excellent.

"The audience participation was very good and we got a chance to hear both sides," she said. "I think the mayor responded well."

"Some people are often offended by Officer's comments on racism," she said, but Anthony added that it is information people need to know.

"My grandparents were adult slaves and there's a lot of things I understand that maybe other people don't," she said.

Officer said that he was glad residents were able to participate in the program. He said that he appreciated the chance to get some "balanced reporting" on the city.

After the program was completed, Donahue said that he thought Officer "hit the bell on several issues."

"I was very impressed with the community," Donahue said. "East St. Louis does not want to be patronized. Citizens want to be patronized. They just want the opportunity to rebuild their own city and they believe they have the right to."

He commented that citizens across the country can be faulted for not looking in the mirror often enough.

"How many are voting? How many are going to public meetings?" he asked.

Donahue was faulted by a few residents at the program's end on some of his remarks that seemed to take a negative twist. He said the media always gets that same charge.

"I accept the commentary, but a lot of people only want the media to say what they want to hear," he said. "My job is not to be popular."

Police

Alternative ticket program started

GRANITE CITY — The City Council has adopted an ordinance establishing an alternative ticket program.

The ticket will give the alleged ordinance violator an option to stay out of court or go to court. The fine for the violation will be $15 if paid within the first 10 days.

From 10 to 30 days the fine would increase to $35. After 30 days, the ticket would then be treated as a court complaint and entered into the court system.

Officials said the main reason for an alternative ticket program is to relieve the overburdened court system and give violators an opportunity to pay a lesser fine of $15, as opposed to $50.

The Granite City Police Department utilizes the program for automobile equipment safety violations: headlights, taillights, mufflers, etc.

In the past, officials said, a typical police officer was reluctant to write a motorist a $50 ticket for operating a vehicle with one headlight out.

"As a result, there were a lot of automobiles running around on the streets at night with only one headlight," an officer said.

"With the fine being substantially less, he is more comfortable writing a $15 ticket and compelling the motorist to get the light repaired."

Police Chief Don Knight commented, "I call it the good-guy ticket."

"The cop on the street still has the discretion as to what ticket to write, but most of them will write the alternative ticket because they are good guys."

"In addition, the money goes straight to the city, not the court system."

Tamburitizens to perform 2 shows in Granite City

Area residents have an opportunity to take a musical trip through Eastern Europe without leaving the United States.

Eastern European and Slavic life will be portrayed through traditional folk music and dances during two concerts by the Duquesne University Tamburitizens at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 23, and Saturday, Nov. 24, benefiting the Belleville Area College Foundation.

The brand new musical pagents will be staged each night in the Granite City High School auditorium, 3101 Madison Ave., Granite City.

This is the first year the Tamburitizens' performance has been expanded to two shows.

John Amisch, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Amisch of Madison, is a member of this year's Tamburitizens troupe.

Madison Mayor John Bellcote is chairman of the local citizens' committee assisting with the performance. His daughter, Norma, an alumna of the Tamburitizens and a 1988 Duquesne graduate, is the ticket chairman.

Tickets for each show are $5. Concert proceeds will fund scholarships through the BAC Foundation for full-time students at the college's Granite City Campus.

Tickets are available at the BAC Foundation Office at the Belleville Campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, the Croatian Home, 1000 Madison Ave., Madison; or by calling 877-2161.

Ticket holders to either concert will have an opportunity to sing and dance with members of the Tamburitizens during a reception at the Croatian Home following the Friday night performance only. Those attending the Saturday program must show their tickets for admission to the reception.

The Tamburitizens, composed of 40 Duquesne students who audition annually for their roles, dress in authentic costumes, designed to depict peasants of several Eastern European countries.

Musical numbers are performed in as many as a dozen languages.

The troupe, founded 54 years ago at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, tours yearly across the country.

It also has made several overseas tours to countries including Romania, Poland, the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, France, Czechoslovakia, Greece and Bulgaria.

The company takes its name from the stringed instrument, the tamburiza.

McDonald's, scouts, help fight hunger

Boy Scouts from the Tri-Cities Area left Scouting for Food bags at the door of area residents on Saturday, Nov. 5.

Residents were asked to contribute canned goods and non-perishable food to help those in need by placing the items inside the bags.

The bags, sponsored by McDonald's restaurants, will be picked up on Saturday, Nov. 17, and the nonperishable food will be taken to food pantries to help feed those less fortunate.

With the holiday season quickly approaching, the scouts are asking everyone to help.

SCOUTS WILL return on Saturday to pick up the bags of canned goods they are soliciting from residents to help those in need. Among those involved in the project, from left to right, are: Barb Isbrecht, co-chairman for the Tri-Cities Area; Cindy Patton, manager of McDonald's Restaurant in Pontoon Beach; Jeff Murphy, McDonald's manager; Cub Scout Joshua Jordan of Cub Pack 141; and Floyd Jordan, project co-chairman.

ate a tax district, unless you recertify."

Trustee Louis Whitsell said the development plan has already been changed three times.

Whitsell expressed concern over denial of the proposal on the basis of the reason given by the zoning board. "I don't think it (too many apartments) is a valid reason to object to a zoning request, and I don't think it will stand up in court."

Douglas continued his line of reasoning that without recertification and without the knowledge of the people living out there, I don't know if (the zoning board's decision) means anything. (Jones) can probably go out there and build anyway, and I'm not sure there is anything we can do about it, due to the development plan."

Douglas asked if recertification had been sought and if residents had been notified after changing the development plan.

After receiving no response, Douglas moved to table the motion to ratify the zoning board's rejection, pending Jensen's written legal opinion on the issue. The motion was tabled upon Madison's second.

The village had received a warning in mid-October from Community Unit School District 9 that the district may consider taking legal action against the rumored development of homes in Routeau Trace. School Superintendent Gilbert Walmsey and Attorney William Beatty said the schools had not received any response from the village as of Wednesday.

Beatty said he expected the issue to be on the school board's agenda at its next meeting.

Shimkus keeps trustee job

By Ed Gurney
Staff writer

John Shimkus, elected last week to become Madison County treasurer, said he will continue to serve as a trustee in Collinsville Township.

"There's no conflict between county treasurer and township trustee," said Shimkus. "I was elected in April 1989 to a four-year term as trustee."

"A friend asked me about it in the spring and prompted me to research it," said Shimkus.

He said he had contacted County Clerk Evelyn Bowles. "We looked up the law. It said which offices present a conflict of interest," Shimkus said.

Shimkus said he will complete his term because "people elected him as township trustee to serve them for four years." He does not plan to seek re-election in the township in 1993.

If he resigned, the person appointed to replace him on the township board might have an unfair advantage in the next election, Shimkus said.

Shimkus, 32, of Collinsville, a Republican, upset Democratic incumbent Mick Henkhaus of Bethalto in the Nov. 6 treasurer election. Shimkus, who resigned his job as teacher and coach at Metro-East Lutheran High School to campaign, takes over the $45,000-a-year treasurer's job in December.

The part-time trustee's duties pay $275 a month.

Although the township board is non-partisan, Shimkus said he provides "a check and balance" to the other board members, who are Democrats.

Shimkus said he thought someone would ask during the campaign about his role as township trustee, but the subject never came up.

Shimkus said he hopes to meet with Henkhaus and his employees before the changeover. Shimkus said he has invited the four or five appointed deputies in Henkhaus' office to submit their resumes by Friday if they want to be considered for continued employment. A couple have already applied.

The rest of the 22 employees are union members and cannot be fired without cause, he said.

He said he's "not bringing in my cronies." No one who worked for his campaign asked if they could have a job if he won, Shimkus said.

He said he has an appointment to meet with County auditor Fred Bathon on Nov. 26. The auditor's office and treasurer's office work closely together, Shimkus said.

County OKs budget; sheriff upset

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Although he is not surprised that the Madison County Board approved its 1991 budget yesterday, Sheriff Bob Churchich is not happy about it.

The board on Wednesday voted 15-2 to accept a $75,169,442 budget proposal for the fiscal year that begins Dec. 1.

"It is a balanced budget and there is no tax increase," said Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City, board chairman.

Churchich is unhappy about the budget because it allocates only $1,372,239 for the jail's budget.

"It is a jail budget that cannot be lived with," Churchich said. "I am operating the jail in the year '91, and I don't think I can rely out of money by September 1991."

Landfill

"No waste water, liquid waste or contaminated soil may be accepted at the landfill."

"No refuse will be accepted from railroads or barges," County Board Member Donald Rea of Pontoon Beach said he was opposed to the landfill at first, but changed his mind after learning the complex had to recycle at least 35 percent of the waste and could be closed down by the county if it failed to maintain that standard.

"It is a very clean, necessary operation," Rea said.

"(A recycling center) is an important move we are going to have to make if we want to cut back on landfills."

Herschel F. Beane, a board member from Godfrey, said he favored the landfill because it was our own living habits and the living habits of other people," said Dick Worthen, county board member and chairman of the Environmental Control Committee.

He suggested that county residents take steps not to pollute the environment with so much waste, "rather than building another landfill in the county."

"We don't need another landfill. We still have the Chain of Rocks, which has 27 years left," Worthen said.

Also, he cited other landfills in Madison and St. Clair counties that could handle Madison County's trash needs.

Worthen urged other board members not to accept the EGS plan because, he said, it was incomplete.

He called the 35-page docu-

The 1991 jail budget is only $12,064 more than the 1990 budget, he said.

"I have cut all of the corners I can cut and the jail is still in the red," he said.

Churchich predicted he will have to go to the board's Finance Committee and make a request for more funds before the end of 1991.

There were 162 people incarcerated in the Madison County Jail as of Wednesday, and Churchich said he does not know if there is enough money to properly feed, clothe and furnish the medical needs of that many people.

To the number of inmates continues to grow throughout the year, he said, he will definitely run out of funds.

"If we can't give food and medicine to these people, then there is going to be a big lawsuit and it is going to cost the county more money," Churchich said.

Also, the sheriff is concerned that the lack of funds will affect the installation of the 911 emergency telephone system.

Churchich had submitted a jail budget proposal to the Finance Committee requesting an additional $230,000 for installation of a 911 system. He requested the money to help pay for the training and salaries of nine new 911 dispatchers.

The committee did not recommend that the board approve the allocation of these funds.

The 911 system was expected to be operational by December 1991; however, Churchich is no longer optimistic that the system will be completed on time.

"I have absolutely no money in the budget for the 911 system," he said. "We are back at square one as far as 911 is concerned."

ment a "conceptual framework" for a landfill rather than a detailed, working proposal.

The facility, to be called the Madison County Recycling Center, will be able to handle up to 1,200 tons of trash each day.

It would become the hub for non-voluntary recycling should the board approve mandatory trash separation in the future.

Voting for the landfill were Frank Dutko, Don Garrett, Frank Lamb, Morris Miles, Herbert "Junior" Milton and Rea, all of the Quad City area, and William Aery, Beane, Anthony Bosich, Frandsen, Fred Heepke, Homer Henke, Leroy Kuehnell, Rudolph Papa and Anthony Payne.

Voting against the landfill plan were Effimoff, Harold Byers, Albert Charles, Fred Daltan, Alan Dunstan, Vergil Fletcher, Nick Hamilos, William Krummelch, William Little, Darrell Riley, Lance Somanisin, Robert Stille and Worthen.

Because it was not a tie ballot, County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer did not vote.

tional kettles were first utilized for the Salvation Army at San Francisco in 1991, Maxwell said.

Salvation Army Captains Curtis and Sandra Hartley offered prayers at the meeting, held at the Sa Community Center. Bobby Patton is chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Recently a divorced woman with two children came to this office inquiring about a will. She was concerned that if she died while the children were still young that her former husband would get custody. She also wanted to be certain that her ex-husband did not receive any of her property at the time of her death.

In this case, the couple had obtained a divorce five years earlier. There were two children, and the wife obtained custody. During the intervening years, the father had little contact with the children and refused to pay child support. The mother in this situation hoped to name a custodian for the children in her will and thereby bypass the father in the event she should die at a young age.

We should that explore what would happen if this woman died without a will. In terms of her property, it would all go to her children. Her former spouse would receive nothing in this situation. With regard to custody, the Court would place the minors based on what was in the "best interest of the children." If the father expressed an interest, one would have to think that in most situations the Court would award custody to him unless he was unfit.

Are there advantages, then, to this woman having a will? One thing to be gained is that she can designate that the children's property should be left in trust at the time of her death. This is known as a testamentary trust and it allows the person making the will to name a responsible person to administer the money and use it wisely on behalf of the children. The mother in the will could not only name a trustee for the trust, but she could also indicate at what age the children should receive their entire trust share.

Can she bypass the father as custodian by naming someone else in the will? As previously indicated, the Court will award custody at the time of her death based on the "best interests of the children." By naming someone else in the will, it seems to this writer that she is at least presenting the Court with an alternative to the natural father. Hopefully, the wishes of the mother expressed in the will would have some influence on the Judge at the time he makes his decision regarding custody.

JAMIE WARREN tells classmates how and where faults can occur. That information was part of a class project on earthquakes in Barbara Varadian's sixth grade class at Parkview School.

Preparing for an earthquake

Staff photos by Pam Doepke-Hurd

With all the hype about possible earthquakes along the New Madrid Fault, the sixth-graders in Barbara Varadian's Parkview Elementary School class in Granite City have made themselves and their families more knowledgeable about earthquakes and what causes them.

For a class project, the students worked in teams to present to their fellow classmates lists of things to keep in an emergency kit in case of an earthquake.

Other students provided information on earthquakes and what one should and should not do during a disaster.

Among the things that authorities recommend during an earthquake is to stay calm and stay put. Move away from glass, mirrors and windows and avoid heavy, standing objects such as bookcases. If you are indoors, stay there. Do not run outside — you could get hit by falling objects. Quickly crouch under a desk or heavy table or brace yourself in a doorway and use your hands and arms to protect your head and neck.

Townsend set pattern for establishment of 'family-style' community

Second of two columns
In tracing local newspaper history last week, we advanced from 1903 to the mid-1920s.

Prohibition had gone into effect Jan. 16, 1920, and was destined to continue until Dec. 5, 1933.

Many people felt too great a thirst for alcohol to obey the law, and the stage was set for a hectic decade.

GANGSTERS RODE through local streets in bulletproof autos but nevertheless many of them were killed, including two triple slayings.

It was a time of general prosperity, but armed robberies and kidnappings occurred frequently. Bootlegging flourished and the highway between Madison and East St. Louis became a "dumping ground," with bodies found along the roadside nearly every weekend.

IT WAS IN THIS setting that E.E. Campbell and C.E. "Corky" Townsend entered the Granite City newspaper scene.

In the spring of 1927, Campbell bought the Press-Record from Lewis Lindley and Harry Falkner and soon hired Townsend as a news reporter at a salary of $5 a week.

Campbell had founded a weekly paper in Louisiana, Mo., and from 1909 to 1924 owned the Alton Daily Times.

HIE BOUGHT BOTH the Granite City Post from Jack Cassidy and the Press-Record. Publication of the Post was discontinued.

Lindley changed his mind and tried to halt the sale of the Press-Record. When Lindley insisted that the cash option in the agreement be complied with, Campbell outmaneuvered him by producing the cash — $100,000.

Lindley moved to California to enter the commercial printing business and Cassidy was hired as a proofreader at the Post-Dispatch.

CONSTRUCTION of a new building for the Press-Record was started at 1815-17 Delmar

Ave. and it was occupied in early 1928. Production shifted from an eight-page flatbed press to a fast, 24-page rotary press.

In the early 1930s, publication days were changed from Tuesday-Friday to Monday-Thursday.

Campbell envisioned a daily paper and his new building, in terra cotta lettering, proclaimed the Daily Press-Record.

WITH THE START of the Great Depression, the dream of a daily disappeared and the lettering was removed during one of the many expansions of the building.

But daily status has been achieved, almost. Our building now is utilized to produce nine issues every seven days.

There are the Thursday P-R and Columbia Star, the Sunday P-R/Journal and Cahokia-Dupo Journal and five Wednesday Journals (Granite City, Cahokia-Dupo, East St. Louis, Monroe County and Madison).

I MET ED CAMPBELL a few times but never worked for him. I was the first person hired by Townsend, in 1945.

Campbell had decided to retire in 1944, and Corky signed to buy the paper. He paid it off in 1947, operating it until 1970.

Campbell was blunt in his editorial views, in line with the times.

(Only last month, the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain ran an ad proudly recalling its founder, E.W. Scripps, as "cantankerous, curmudgeonly, fearless, blunt and perfectly suited for a career in journalism.")

TOWNSEND INHERITED a libel lawsuit by local firefighters, who had been called "pumper polishers," among other things, in an editorial campaign. They were angry at Campbell but not at Townsend and settled for a silver dollar apiece.

Townsend was more tactful, and more selective in the targets he chose. But when it came to lawlessness so wide open that it tended to corrupt this area's governmental processes, he was a tower of strength.

Corky quickly won national acclaim for courageous journalism.

I RECALL stopping by the news office late one night and finding that two 48-caliber bullets had been fired through glass blocks in the front wall, ricocheting about and coating desks and the floor with parts of the ceiling panels.

It apparently was a "message" to ease up on our exposes of illegal gambling.

But we kept up the pressure and, by the mid-1950s, Madison County had undergone a fundamental change.

IN RECENT YEARS, the

Granite City area has continued to improve as a good place in which to live and raise a family.

Still, a center of industrial jobs, it no longer is under noble influence and has become a "bedroom community."

Examples I cited in a talk Nov. 5 to the Old Six Mile Historical Society included fine school facilities, the ice skating rink, diverse homes and such attractions as the new Legacy golf course.

THE P-R OWNER from 1970-84 was the Post Corporation of Appleton, Wis.

Since 1984, the Press-Record/Journal has been part of the Suburban Journals, with Rick Jarvis as our president and publisher. Dennis Grabaugh has been the editor since 1988.

Six Mile Prairie began here in 1817, followed by Venice in 1873, Madison in 1881, Granite City in 1896 and Pontoon Beach in 1963. And for nearly 88 years, local progress has been recorded in permanent, instant-history form, in your newspaper.

Landfill wrong for county

As we said here a month ago, our county ought to reject the landfill proposal for the Horseshoe Lake area. Neeko Township. It was extremely disappointing to see the County Board approve it 15-13 yesterday, with six of the 15 yes votes cast by Quad Citizens Don Rea, Herbert "Junior" Milton, Morris Miles, Frank Laub, Don Garrett and Frank Dutko.

How could they do this to the public that just re-elected several of them? How could they do it after the devastating testimony at the public hearings? Only Vasil Eitimoff of this community voted against the landfill.

Every possible opportunity to reverse the board's action ought to be explored, and quickly.

A processing plant and storage site for baled garbage is planned by Environmental Control Systems of Springfield northwest of the I-70-55/Illinois 111 intersection. Compacted bales weighing up to two tons are to be stacked and covered with soil up to an eventual height of 85 feet.

At a time when the Cahokia Mound state historic site, the Melvin Price Locks and Dam viewing point, the Horseshoe Lake state recreation area, and other attractions are luring visitors to Metro East, the board has chosen to send out a different message: Don't come here but send us your garbage from miles around — a radius of 100 miles around.

Much attention was focused at yesterday's meeting on recycling 35 percent of the material in the landfill. It was also stipulated that no refuse would be accepted from railroads or barges. Presumably, no cargo planes will bring any in, either, but big trucks will be OK.

Rea told the board that "it (a recycling center) is an important move we are going to have to make if we want to cut back on landfills." We're sorry, but "cutting back on landfills" by creating another one in a lowland area — probably the worst place to put one — isn't reassuring.

A sense of urgency about the nation's overall trash and pollution problem is not wrong, but the urgency of the board's approach seems misplaced, misdirected — almost like beating the deadline before pending state legislation might take landfill-siting power out of local control.

Frank Boyne, chairman of St. Clair County's Environmental Control Committee, testified at the hearings that, despite its portrayal as a recycling facility, the local proposal is mostly just a landfill, one that the St. Louis bi-state region doesn't need. Boyne said there is no way it could operate at a profit without significant importation of waste from outside Metro East. He called the plan inconsistent with goals and limits in Madison County's own long-range solid waste management plan, adopted less than six months ago.

Robert Stille, a member of the Regional Pollution Control Board, spoke of "misrepresentations" associated with the proposal and information missing from the application.

Richard Worthen, chairman of the Madison County Board's Environmental Control Committee, told fellow board members, "We don't need another landfill." He urged the board not to accept the plan because, he said, it is incomplete.

Mike Coulson, manager of a $350,000 bi-state area study completed this year for the East-West Gateway Council, said it concluded no landfills should be built in southwestern Illinois until 1995. He said 60 percent of the trash in Metro East landfills comes from Missouri already.

What constituency is being served by the board? Why is it thumbing its nose at local citizens?

All 15 of the county board members who voted for this issue stand for reelection in 1992, and we won't soon forget what they did to us in 1990.

Still tired of being a peon

If American workers had named Robert Edmundson as their side, they'd never have needed John Wayne.

Then again, with more Robert Edmundsons, management might be forced to bar the door.

I first wrote about Edmundson in September 1987, and had just about forgotten him until recently when he quite literally appeared in my doorway.

Edmundson, 41, has not gotten rich quick, but he has sold about 500 copies of his book to date.

Edmundson is still pushing a 70-page, self-published book he wrote three years ago called "The Peon Game Is Over: A Handbook for the American Worker."

The book offers the theory that industry is being victimized by a system of harassment inflicted on the lower echelon work force by middle management.

Edmundson knows whereof he speaks. The Alton resident was fired in 1976 from Conoco refinery in Hartford, for a problem that he said was later ruled to be a supervisor's negligence. The union won his job back a year later and during the next 10 years, Edmundson compiled notes on problems working men have with their supervisors.

He lost his job a second time, in 1986, shortly after presenting a 110-page grievance against the company, detailing his and other workers' harassment.

All that proved impetus for the book. Edmundson details a system of harassment that he divides into seven categories, labeled as "plays." In the "frustration play," a worker might be denied a foot that is mandatory for his job, or be denied a previously approved vacation. There is also the "red light play," where workers are made to work in unsafe operations.

Among the rest are the "pit-one-worker" against another play, the "troublemaker" play, and the "military chain of command play," which actively discourages complaints from the lower ranks.

Does any of this sound familiar? If so, then you must be a

Give skateboarders chance

To the editor:

The article "Skateboards topic of ordinance study" left us hopeful that the City would recognize the need for a designated and safe place for our children to enjoy the sport of skateboarding.

But the newspaper editorial "Keep skateboarders out" dashed our hopes to the ground. The city encourages drug awareness programs, and concerned citizens are always working to keep our children safe and well. Any and all sports should be encouraged, not banned.

These are the activities that keep our children out of trouble, off of drugs, and physically fit.

Our son, Adam Barr, the skateboarder, is a sophomore at Marquette High School, where he has all honors classes. Last spring, he won the Outstanding Male Performance award for his achievements in acting in the school's four one-act plays.

He was a Boy Scout for six years and an altar boy for four. He has been taking the key board with a group every other Sunday at 6 o'clock Mass at Holy Family Church.

Several of his skateboarding friends also attend Marquette High School and many others are students at Granite City High.

I note our son's accomplishments because I fear the newspaper is about to unfatteringly stereotype kids who enjoy this particular sport.

Some skateboarding magazines list skateparks. Some states have several, some states have few.

The closest skatepark to Granite City is in Webster Groves, Mo. Many of the kids from Granite City have been there a time or two; some have not been there at all. It's just too far to go.

Yes, something's got to give. How about a skatepark in Granite City? Or maybe you would rather see another fast-food place go up?

Among our four children, they have in the past or are now participating in such activities as basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball, girl scouting, ice skating, roller skating and karate. But to each his own.

Please give skateboarders a chance.

County should block landfill

To the editor:

In February of this year, I wrote to the Madison County Board in regard to the state-mandated solid-waste disposal program.

My letter was read and placed on file.

The letter stated my concerns on problems related to landfills, such as:

• High water-tables.

• Flooding, and

• The effects of solid waste or any soil contamination, when mixed with water, on the safety of our residents.

For the past two months I read with interest about the Madison County Board's push for a 210-acre landfill planned for the Horseshoe Lake area of Nameoki Township.

Three days of testimony by the experts have shown that the landfill would accept waste from a 100-mile radius, the site at Horseshoe Lake offers low protection to those depending on well water, and the landfill is planned for one of the worst water-logged areas of our township.

I can only hope that enough County Board members will listen to the people and also the experts' warnings, and that they will know that their decision could affect the health and welfare of all our children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

What do you think, readers? Will you write your County Board members on importing this solid waste?

Quinn grateful, will perform

To the editor:

I was very pleased to receive the endorsement of the Granite City Press-Record/Journal (for state treasurer), and I am grateful for the complimentary words you had to say in your editorial.

I am quite aware that your paper's endorsement carries with it an obligation to perform once in office and I hope to meet the challenge over the next four years.

Thank you for having the confidence that I can do it.

Marines hoping for packages

To the editor:

My name is Sgt. Norman P. Hoosier. I am writing to you from Operation Desert Shield "somewhere" in Saudi Arabia on behalf of The Marines in the charge. As it may not be news we are over here, I would like you to publish the enclosed address and the few requests we have with it.

I graduated from Granite City High School North in 1962 and joined the Corps thereafter. My wife (formerly Christy Lynn Strennjo) is also from Granite City, so I feel comfortable in asking the good people of Granite for a little support.

When we first arrived here and everything was "in the news" we received tons of mail addressed to "any Marine." This was great for my single (unwed) Marines' morale. At times, lags on the mail is getting thinner.

What I would like to see happen is for the people of Granite City and my Marines to become "pen pals."

Recreation facilities needed

To the editor:

Mrs. Prather in Lincoln Place saw that her neighborhood had a place for kids of that end of town to have a recreation building, and some great sportsmen developed their talent there.

The kids of Pontoon Beach need recreation facilities like that. It was a long, hot summer with no place to play out here but in the streets. There is a skating rink if you have the money.

When the politicians were talking about funding an aqua marineland here, it seemed they could get their hands on plenty of bonds to get that started.

So we know there is money in Pontoon Beach to be put to good use. The seniors have wonderful facilities to have good times, but what about the kids? The kids are the future of this village.

Granite City has the park district for kids in that district.

We not only need to put to use the ground that was donated for this purpose, we need it now — not in years to come.

How about some action on this, Mr. Wilson? What are you doing with that ground that was donated for kids' recreation?

The library is fine. If you can start a library with volunteers, why not staff recreation facilities with volunteers?

National Steel's third-quarter profit lower than expected, down from '89

PITTSBURGH — National Steel Corporation reported a net profit of $11.4 million for the year's third quarter, bringing net profits for the first nine months of the year to $20.3 million.

Net profit for the third quarter of 1989 was $12.6 million and $54.8 million, respectively. Net sales for the third quarter of 1990 were $663.3 million compared to $609.1 million in the same 1989 period. For the first nine months, sales approximated the $1.9 billion of the previous year.

Net income for the third quarters of 1990 and 1989 was favorably impacted by extraordinary credits which represent tax benefits from net operating loss carryforwards not previously recognized of $5.5 million and $3.4 million, respectively.

Earnings for the first nine months of the two years benefited similarly from such extraordinary credits of $2.7 million and $15.0 million.

Steel shipments in the third quarter were 1,207,000 tons, 3.1 percent above the 1,171,000 tons shipped in the same 1989 period.

Raw steel production during the quarter totaled 1,425,000 tons, up 7.1 percent from the 1,333,000 tons produced during the third quarter of 1989.

For the first nine months of 1990, steel shipments totaled 3,712,000 tons, comparable to the 3,734,000 tons shipped in the same 1989 period. Raw steel production for the nine months was 4,290,000 tons, an increase of 6 percent over the 4,047,000 tons produced during the first three quarters of 1989.

Kokichi Hagiwara, chairman and chief executive officer, noted that softer-than-anticipated market conditions, unscheduled equipment outages and a greater percentage of lower-profit products in the company's sales mix all contributed to a "somewhat disappointing third-quarter performance."

Ronald H. Doerr, National's president and chief operating officer, said the higher raw steel production in the 1990 periods, as compared to similar 1989 periods, largely reflected the reduced productivity that had occurred in the previous year resulting from blast furnace maintenance projects at the company's Granite City Division.

Doerr noted that the third-quarter demand for coated products was lower than expected. However, this decrease was partially offset by strong shipments to the automotive industry, in anticipation of possible work stoppages when automotive labor contracts were to expire in September. "We are concerned that this market could soften in the fourth quarter," he said.

Doerr reported continued progress in National's $1.8 billion program of capital improvements.

He said that the second continuous slab caster serving the company's Granite City Division will start up as scheduled late this year.

When this unit reaches full capacity in early 1991, National Steel will be the first major American steel company to cast 100 percent of its steel by this advanced process, Doerr said.

The required environmental permits have been obtained and planning is proceeding for a new coke oven battery at the firm's Great Lakes Division near Detroit.

Doerr also noted that an agreement to build a $200 million joint-venture galvanizing line in Windsor, Canada, was finalized during the third quarter. The facility will be owned 10 percent by National, 40 percent by its parent company, NKK Corporation of Japan, and 50 percent by Dofasco Inc. of Canada.

Looking ahead, Hagiwara expressed concern over the softening domestic and world economies and the increased cost pressures being exerted as a result of the Midwest crisis.

National Steel Corp., the nation's fifth largest steelmaker, shipped 4,957,000 tons of steel and had sales of $2.6 billion in 1989.

Children of divorce need both parents

For many divorced dads, weekends offer both pain and pleasure.

This usually is the time they spend with their kids. Although they want to be with their children, they might find the time together difficult to manage.

Fathers may be tempted to stop picking their child up every weekend if the experience is too painful, says Bill Wing, practicum director for Kids in the Middle, an agency that provides counseling services for children that are involved in divorce or parental separation.

"Hang in there," says Wing to fathers facing a dilemma like this. "It's a terrible rejection for kids if their father drops out of their lives," Wing says.

Even though recent years have brought many changes in divorce settlements, it still is usually the mother who gets custody of the children, says Wing. He says that mothers without custody face a social stigma, and experience guilt and shame that don't confront the non-custodial father.

One of the biggest concerns of non-custodial parents is that their children will not want to be with them after the divorce. Wing advises non-custodial parents facing this dilemma not to become a "Disneyland Dad."

Every weekend with your child does not have to be a special event, Wing says. Include your child in the daily chores and normal activities in your house.

Wing advises the non-custodial parent to set rituals and assign chores for those times the child stays with him. This makes the child feel more like a member of the family and less like a guest.

Non-custodial parents have to realize that the transition from one home to the next is difficult for their child and can stir up feelings of loss and grieving, Wing says. He advises that the non-custodial parent allow time for this transition.

Don't plan any interactive activities for the time when your child first arrives at your house, Wing advises. Try watching television together or playing cards so that the child can get to know you again, Wing says.

Tell your child that you understand how hard it is to change houses, Wing says. If you light this transition time and see it as a rejection, you are postponing the time you can enjoy with your child, he says. This weekly change will be harder on younger children, Wing says.

Wing tells non-custodial parents to let go of any concerns they have about their ex-spouse and focus their energy on the time with their child. "When you shoot an arrow at your ex-spouse, it goes right through your child's heart," Wing says.

Joy Shickman, south area manager for the St. Louis County Child Mental Health Services, a division of the St. Louis County Health Dept., advises non-custodial parents to let their child know they are still important to them.

"Keep your promises. See them if you have a plan to see each other," Shickman says. "Negotiate with your child and make concessions or adjustments to his needs," she says. And regular financial support is imperative, Shickman says.

Teenagers have different needs than younger children, Wing says. Non-custodial parents should realize that their child will want to be with his friends and will need to establish his identity at this time of his life.

Don't force your teenager to spend time with you, Wing advises. If you do this, you run the risk of alienating your child, he says.

Try to plan activities your teenager would be interested in and let him bring friends along, Wing suggests. "Use your teenager as a consultant for what to do together," Wing says.

"Your kids want your love," Wing tells non-custodial parents. "They will take money and presents as a substitute, but they don't need that."

Jane Cosby is a former teacher and the mother of two.

Poshard: Illinois will lose jobs with passage of Clean Air Act

WASHINGTON — The Clean Air Act that U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, Ill., said will cost Illinois thousands of jobs won approval in Congress over his objections.

The House of Representatives passed the Clean Air Act of 1990 in the final hours of action before adjourning. Senate approval sent the bill to President George Bush for his signature.

"Southern Illinois should prepare for the worst and hope for the best. I tried for the last two years to make changes in this bill to minimize the damage on our coal mines and our economy."

"But make no mistake; this is a tough bill for our area and it will force us to diversify our economy to survive," Poshard said.

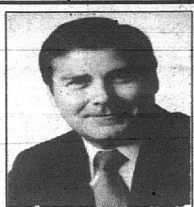

The bill requires more than 100 utility plants to reduce their emissions of sulfur dioxide by the year 2000.

Despite a lack of conclusive research, emissions from coal-burning power plants are blamed for causing "acid rain" and environmental damage in some parts of the country.

The impact on southern Illinois will be most noticeable by the drop in coal mining activity, he said; to reach the new emissions levels, some utility plants may choose to burn coal with less sulfur than is found in southern Illinois.

The final bill does include a system of allowances and credits that encourage the use of scrubbers and other pollution control technology, which may offset some of the job loss, Poshard said.

But government and industry analysts alike predict 16,000 jobs or more may be lost in Illinois, combined with an increase in electric power rates, he said.

3 John 1:1 ... "Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good."

There is one characteristic that we should try to develop as Christians and that is leadership. It seems we follow too easily, and too quickly. We can, before we are aware of it, become involved in non-Christian activities, simply because we are prone to follow.

We must always pray and ask God for direction in our lives. The steps of a righteous man are ordered by God. We must strive to walk His way. Which incidentally is the straight and narrow way.

Let us follow Christ and be leaders of men for his sake. And as we pray to be led in paths of righteousness, we will be showing the way for those who look to us for leadership.

Sav, "I will be a leader for Jesus." Today.

Arnette leads Tri-City Regional Port board

Dale Arnette has been elected chairman of the Tri-City Regional Port District's Board of Commissioners for the 1990-91 fiscal year.

Arnette has been a member of the Port board since 1979 and has served as treasurer of the board for the past 11 years. Arnette is past owner and founder of Arnette Pattern Company, located at 1801 Cleveland Blvd.

He was chairman of the St. Louis Chapter of the American Foundrymen's Society and acting executive director of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Speedway property annexed

MADISON — The City Council on Tuesday took in 2 1/2 more acres of the Gateway International Speedway on Illinois 203.

"As a result of the annexation, all of the speedway's buildings, concession stands and grandstand are now within the city limits, leaving only a portion of the track in the unincorporated area of St. Clair County."

The aldermen also approved,

He has served on the United Way board, the St. Elizabeth Medical Center Lay Advisory Board and the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank board among many other positions.

Arnette lives with his wife, Catherine, in Granite City. Other Port District officers elected for 1990-91 are Howard Silas, treasurer, and Kent Holsinger, secretary.

A model replica of a river towboat was presented to Melvin Wilmsmeyer, who had served as Port board chairman for the past six years. The model is named the Melvin Wilmsmeyer.

in a separate action, the annexation of 111 Used Auto Parts, located on Illinois 111 near its intersection with Interstate 55-70.

In other action, the aldermen asked City Attorney Casper Nighohossian to look into a way to require that city inspections, under the city's occupancy code, be performed on the grounds of any sale of a residential building.

IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS ...

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

The Christmas Season is rapidly approaching, and our City is without traditional Christmas decorations that many other communities enjoy. We received adverse comments from St. Louis News-Media last year because of lack of community spirit or interest in the traditional observance of the Holiday Season. It appears that the absence of a central organizer to bring together the parties that could provide the resources to purchase and manage such a project may have been the problem rather than the lack of community spirit or interest.

Your local Chamber of Commerce and City Government are offering to be the organizer and catalyst for a fund drive to purchase decorations for the Central Downtown business district between 18th Street and 23rd Street from Madison Ave. to Cleveland Ave.

We are proposing to purchase street banners depicting the Christmas Season to be mounted on street light poles by means of a pair of steel brackets. The banners would be put in place and removed for storage by corporations within the city. The brackets once attached to the street light poles would remain in place and might be useful for other seasonal celebrations. It is estimated that the approximate cost for banners and brackets is $100 per described.

Corporations, clubs, organizations and individual citizens of Granite City will be asked to contribute to this effort as well as businesses and professions must be strong participation from the business and professional community. Please indicate your level of support by purchasing one or more sets of banners and mounting brackets.

Check the appropriate number and drop in the return mail so we may be able to move forward with this project in time for this Christmas Season.

Sincerely,
R.C. Bush

'Home Alone' a family film filled with warmth

If you ever wanted to leave home and forget the kids — just once — then "Home Alone" (***) offers a golden opportunity.

The comedy provides a chance to vicariously experience that parental fantasy.

Ten-year-old Macaulay Culkin, who played in "Jacob's Ladder" and "Uncle Buck," gets his first starring role playing a lad named Kevin McCallister. Kevin lives in an upper-class suburb of Chicago. His parents, played by John Heard and SCTV's Catherine O'Hara, have planned a Christmas vacation for the family in Paris. It's the night before they are to leave and Kevin and his family are in a panic.

Last-minute preparations are frantically under way. People come and go. Activity inside the residence resembles a fire drill gone awry.

With the dawn come more problems. The family is asleep when the airport limo arrives because an overnight power failure has shut off all the alarm clocks. In the morning, Kevin, dressed and to the airport on time, Kevin, who has slept alone on the third floor, gets left at home when the Duke of Misadventure, the number of children. Mom doesn't realize what has happened until midway across the Atlantic.

"Home Alone" then details

how Kevin faces up to his solitary situation and how he handles a couple of inept, daytime burglars, played by Daniel Stern and Joe Pesci, who can't steal anything but laughs in this film.

Even with its preposterous premise, this charming little comedy is full of the Christmas spirit, and the comedy spirit of Hughes. It has excellent production credits, is ideally cast and is replete with funny, real-life people.

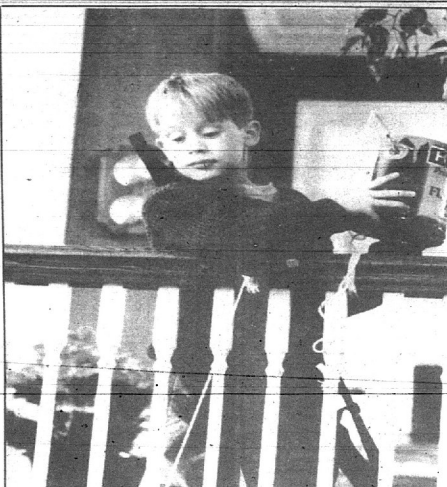

The diminutive Culkin is the kind of actor who gets bigger on screen than he is in real life. The youngster's range of facial expressions is priceless.

All things considered, this is the kind of motion picture that will get its best reviews from the people who have to pay to get inside to see it.

Hopefully, none of them will forget to bring the kids.

Rated PG (mild language). Running time: 93 minutes. Rating based on four stars.

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-TV (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

IN A DILEMMA is 8-year-old Kevin McCallister (Macaulay Culkin), who accidentally gets left behind when his family flies off for a holiday vacation in "Home Alone."

'Masters of Modern Horror' to haunt Belleville Campus

The suspenseful and terrifying worlds of murder, vampires, voodoo, and possession will come alive on the Belleville Campus stage as eight short works by some of the finest writers of modern horror fiction will be presented at 8 p.m. Nov. 16 through 18 by the Belleville Area College Drama Department.

Each performance of the three-day play, "Masters of Modern Horror," will be presented free to the public in the Belleville Campus Theatre, 2500 Carlyle Road.

Drama instructor Dr. Alan Friedman will serve as director and narrator of the production. He also compiled and adapted all the stories.

Some of the stories deal with adult subject matter, so parents might not wish to bring small children, Friedman said.

"A cast of 11 will perform more than 30 roles in one night, so the actors, by appearing in several stories, will have several chances to display their versatility and showcase their talents," Friedman said.

'Back to Hannibal' puts St. Charles in spotlight

By Harry Hamm
Staff writer

Earlier this year when "Back to Hannibal," Disney Channel's made-for-television film, was being shot along the St. Charles riverfront and on that city's historic South Main Street, Ned Beatty was flown in for a day to shoot one scene.

The scene involving Beatty, who plays the Duke of Misadventure, and Raphael Sbarge and Mitch Landerson as Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn, respectively, was to take place at night in a tent on the riverfront.

The only problem was a driving rain that made camera-work impossible.

Faced with losing Beatty for the scene, the crew mustered its filmmaking ingenuity and presto, within hours, the tent was set up on the much-laden floor of the conference room in the convention center on South Main. The scene was shot and Beatty was on his way out.

And the beauty of it all is that people viewing the film this fall and winter on the Disney Channel never will know the difference, said Steve Powell, head of the St. Charles Convention and Visitor's Bureau.

That story and others about the difficulties the film crew encountered while shooting the film is the topic of a lengthy article in the September/October issue of Disney Channel magazine, which is circulated to more than 5 million households, Powell said.

Based on current advertising rates charged by the magazine, Powell estimated it would cost the city $434,000 to buy the same amount of advertising space that the article will provide for free.

And the publicity bonanza is in addition to the nearly $1 million the film crew spent in the city while shooting there in May and June, he said.

All things considered, the film, which is about Tom and Huck when they are adults, has rung up big economic benefits for the St. Charles area, Powell said.

In 1989, 215 film projects with varying amounts of work brought $30.5 million to Missouri, according to statistics compiled by the state's film commission.

Illini coaches ready to think basketball

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Although University of Illinois assistant coaches Jimmy Collins and Dick Nagy are bitter about recent sanctions placed on the program by the NCAA, the two are ready to turn their attention to basketball.

Collins and Nagy held a press conference Wednesday at the law offices of City Attorney Mark Goldenberg, who is also Collins' lawyer.

On Nov. 8, the NCAA cleared the University of all five major allegations of recruiting violations. But the school was handed stiff penalties for its inability to maintain "institutional control."

The major allegations stemmed from Collins' reported offer of $80,000 and a Chevrolet Blazer to Dean Thomas, Bruce Pearl, assistant coach at Iowa, publicly stated that he had a taped telephone conversation with Thomas in which Thomas discussed the offer from Collins.

LaPhonso Ellis, a former East St. Louis Lincoln High All-American who signed with Notre Dame, also claimed that Collins offered him cash and a car.

But while the NCAA committee on infractions dropped the charges and stated that no violations were "not found," director of enforcement Chuck Smith publicly commented that the decision did not mean the Illini staff was not guilty.

Smith has been quoted as saying that, since the infractions committee did not say the allegations were false, in some minds they were true.

That comment disturbs Collins and his attorney, Mark Goldenberg of Granite City.

"In a hearing such as the one we were involved in, where the burden of proof is much less than in a court of law, and they still can't prove the charges... we feel that Mr. Smith's comments were uncomplimentary and inappropriate, at best," said Goldenberg.

Goldenberg dismissed any notions of taking legal action against the NCAA, but said he and Collins may consider action against Ellis and Pearl.

He said that his client was denied the "right to confront" Ellis and Pearl in the NCAA hearing, and that pre-trial discovery procedures in federal cases would provide such an arena in which Collins could clear his name.

Collins said his image had been tarnished, but that he hoped it would not hinder his ability to recruit when the sanctions are lifted.

"We work hard to keep a good image," Collins said. "To be cleared and then have someone push a cloud back over your head is disturbing. I feel my relationship with (high school) coaches is more than just professional. I think this may actually help to bring me closer to them."

The Illini still face three years of probation, two years of recruiting restrictions (including two scholarships in each of the next two years), and a ban on post-season play this year.

The penalty is a result of Illinois' failure to comply with "rules compliance safeguards" in its program. The infractions committee found that the University lacked "institutional control" in three areas, according to Goldenberg.

"They found the documentation was not complete, that the complimentary ticket policy was a recruiting advantage, and that the program's relationship with a car dealer in Decatur was a recruiting advantage," he said.

Nagy did not feel that the sanctions would hinder the program extensively within Illinois, "but I don't know nationally. We expect the high school coaches in the area to be fair and to continue to present the University as a possibility to their students."

Said Collins: "The University really sells itself. It is a top school, with a top program and a top coach (Lou Henson). No

Claggett signs letter with Billikens

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

VENICE — John Rush had that feeling of deja vu.

"Seems like we've done this before, haven't we?" said the Venice High School principal Wednesday morning.

Indeed we have. "This" was another Red Devil player signing a letter of intent to play NCAA Division I college basketball. Erwin Claggett, who will lead Venice this year in its quest to return to the state tournament, signed Wednesday to play college ball at St. Louis University.

Claggett, a 6-2 guard who can shoot the lights out, becomes the third Red Devil in the last four years to go directly to Division I. Jesse Hall went to Michigan State in 1987, the last transferred to SIUE this year for his senior season) and Dale Turner signed with Northern Iowa in 1988.

But Claggett will be staying home for friends and family to watch. He is part of a solid recruiting class for Rich Grawer's program at SLU. Claggett is one of potentially five members of the St. Louis Eagles, a summer AAU team which finished third in a national tournament this year, who will join the Billikens in 1991. Eric Bickelhaupt of Ritenour and Scott Highmark of Parkway West also signed Wednesday, while Cardinal Ritter's Julian Winfield — the son of Billiken assistant coach Lee

Small group of skaters should be competitive

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — It's not a big group, but Garry Henson thinks he has a competitive hockey team this year.

The Warriors open Mid-States Club Hockey Association play Friday with a 9:15 p.m. game against CBC at the North County Recreation Complex. Granite City will carry only 13 skaters and two goalies, but there is some talent and Henson thinks some good things can be accomplished.

"We'll be able to put three lines and two sets of defensemen out there," he said. "I think we can be competitive with every team in our conference and we could win it if we don't blow a game or two somewhere along the line. We've had one game in each of the last two years that we should have won, but it got away and cost us the conference both times."

The Warriors were 10-10-3 last year before being eliminated in the playoffs by Vianney. Last year's team was led by Matt Schneke, now playing in his second year with the St. Louis Junior Blues. Schneke was one of the top players in the MSCHA, and his loss is a big one. But Henson isn't giving up.

"If we get everybody here, we'll be among the strongest teams in the North Division," Henson said.

Junior Mike Naeve is perhaps the best returning player. At 5-11, 200 pounds, Naeve could be a force on left wing of the Warriors' top line.

Schedule

Home games in ALL CAPS. Home games played at Wilson Park rink.

"Mike has had some problems in the past, but I think he's squared away now," said Henson. "Heaven knows he can play. If anything, his intensity sometimes exceeds what we want it to be. He just needs direction. I'll put a rope on him if I need to."

Naeve will be on the top line with two out-of-district players, Junior Derek Zirkelbach of Collinsville and senior Jack Chandler of Dupu will be the center and right wing, respectively.

"Zirkelbach could turn out to be our best player," Henson said. "That will be our main scoring line. Chandler is a good athlete and a great kid. He scored four goals against us last year when he played for Fox."

But Chandler won't be available at least until the home opener Monday against CBC

Garry Henson ... can contend in North

(8:45 p.m.). He is a running back for the Dupu High School football team which is playing in the state Class 2A semifinals Saturday against Gillespie.

Chandler won't be the only player from a winning team in another sport skating for the Warriors. Senior defenseman Larry Wright was a member of the Warrior soccer team this fall.

"They wanted to practice with us, but I wouldn't let them until their seasons are over," said Henson. "I have great respect for Gene Baker and (Dupu coach) Gary Mauser, and I wouldn't want to do anything to hurt their chances."

Wright and sophomore Rich Whymers of Bethalto will pair up on defense, while junior Nathan Weaver and sophomore Mike Jaros will be another defensive pair, although Jaros could move up and provide some offense as well.

Henson feels he might have the best goaltending tandem in the conference with senior Robbie Nolan and sophomore Brent Golden.

"Robbie has some experience and has played some big games for us in the playoffs," said Henson. "Brent is probably more technically sound. He attends a lot of goaltending schools in the off-season. We'll split their work in the first two games and then it will be a coaching decision as to who to play."

"These guys are all developing players. There are some freshmen who could have helped our numbers, but they decided to stay in the amateur program another year. We've only got three seniors and there's a ton of kids out here in the youth program, so we'll be in really good shape for next year. But this group is going to be able to compete pretty well."

Henson thinks Kirkwood could be the sleeper this year, with Parkway South also contending with Desmet and CBC for league honors.

8-1: The Warrior sophomore football team finished 8-1 in 1990, giving the team a 15-3 record over the past two years. Team members included, front row left to right, Brett Baron, Matt Lour, Tim Ozanich, Jonathan Blomme, Tim Connolly, Steve Keelin, Les Nunez, Robert Morgan and Damon Welt; middle row, coaches Al Lewis and Gus Lignouli, Jason

Sophomore gridders roll to 8-1 record

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — The Warrior football program was one of the most improved in the area this year — on the varsity level. At the underclassman level, things just picked up where they left off in 1989. And providing the most immediate help to the 1991 varsity will be members of this year's sophomore team, which went 6-1. That gives coaches Gus Lignouli and Al Lewis a 15-3 record over the past two seasons.

Several members of the 1989 sophomore team which went 7-2 were key contributors to this year's 6-4 varsity team which almost made the state playoffs in Tom Wyrostek's first season back as head coach. Those players will be seniors next year and will combine with this year's sophomores to give the varsity a pretty good talent pool.

In addition, the freshman squad went 6-3, marking the first time in quite a while all three levels had winning seasons.

For Lignouli, the 6-1 season the sophomores enjoyed was a bit of a surprise.

"I thought we could be a 7-2 team last year and we were," he said. "But we were a little skeptical coming into this season. Our offensive line just wasn't very big and we thought that would be something to slow us down. But that turned out to be the most improved area on the team as the year went on."

The sophomores opened with a 7-0 win over Quincy, then won three conference games — 16-8 over Belleville West, 14-3 over Collinsville and 14-6 over East St. Louis. It was the second straight year Granite City has beaten East St. Louis at the sophomore level.

"East St. Louis scored on a long pass play early in the game," Lignoul said. "After that we just shut them down."

The sophomores suffered their only defeat Oct. 5, a 28-14 decision to Parkway Central.

"They were better than we were, but even that game was tied 14-14 with six minutes left," said Lignoul. "Then we just started missing some tackles. We didn't know a lot about Parkway Central going into the game, but they were the better team that day."

Undaunted, the sophomore Warriors closed out with four more wins — 9-7 over SLUH, 28-7 over Edwardsville, 14-12 over Alton and 30-19 over Belleville East to wrap up a 5-0 conference record.

"The East St. Louis and Belleville East games were the ones where we played the best against some good competition," said Lignoul. "Belleville East scored on two of their first three plays, but again we stopped them pretty well after that, and their coaches really complimented our kids when it was over."

As is usually the case in Granite City football, the sophomore team operated at a quickness disadvantage in most games. "But a ball control offense helped."

"Our best defense was often our offense," Lignoul said. "We had a lot of long drives that consumed a lot of time."

The offensive line of Eric Miner, Zac Boyer, Brian Cave, Robert Morgan, and Walter Milton deserves the credit.

it for that. Les Nunes was the quarterback and Matt Lour was the blocking fullback for Blacks Jeff Luffman, Mike Speer and Ron Fisher (a freshman).

"I really want to commend Mike Speer," said Lignoul. "He had a 70-yard touchdown run against Edwardsville, then he quarterbacked the team against Alton when Nunes was hurt. He filled in a few spots and really did a nice job."

Billy Herman was the main receiver, although Chris Warren, Jason Dillard and Luffman also helped in that area. Luffman caught two of Nunes' four touchdown passes.

Defensively, the charge was led by Cave, Andy Richards, John Tinnon and Patrick Jesse on the line. Lour, Bobby Wilson and Luffman at linebacker, and Herman and Nunes in the backfield.

"Bobby Wilson was probably our hardest hitter," said Lignoul. "And Richards is a pretty big kid (63, 180) on the line." Nunes handled the kicking chores and won the SLUH game with a 25-yard field goal.

"Les isn't real big (67, 150), but he is an outstanding passer," said Lignoul. "He understands the game. He checked quite a few plays at the line of scrimmage and made them work."

"Then Lignoul paid Nunes a pretty fair compliment."

"He reminds me a little of Timmy Hogan when he was playing sophomore ball (1987)," he said. "I wouldn't be surprised to see Les at least get a shot at the starting job on the varsity next year."

Lignoul was confident his team could compete with just about everyone on the schedule, and it did.

"We were a little concerned about some things when the year started," he said. "But there was really a good attitude among the players and coaches. These guys improved every single week."

one person does the recruiting. It is a function of the entire staff and the school."

Nagy said a positive attitude on campus among the press and fans has helped him "turn attention toward the team and forget about the NCAA."

Nagy and Collins both express optimism in regard to this year's squad, labeled "Young Guns" in the Champaign area.

"Many of the so-called experts have picked us to finish in the bottom half of the Big Ten," Nagy said. "But they picked Michigan State to finish there last season. I think we have a better club than most people think we have. Of course, we are young."

Nagy said senior Larry Smith of Alton and fellow senior Andy Kpedi are the team leaders.

Nagy called freshmen Thomas T.J. Wheeler, Tommy Michael, Scott Pierce and Rennie Clemons "the best group of freshmen we've had since I've been coaching."

If the season started tomorrow, Nagy would start Smith, Kpedi, Andy Koufmann and Thomas, but is not sure who would be the fifth. Collins said several players could vie for the fifth spot.

"But it doesn't matter what we think," joked Nagy. "Lou is the coach."

And the season does not start tomorrow. The "Young Guns" can be seen at Vergil Fletcher gym in Collinsville on Saturday at 7 p.m. when they take the floor for an intrasquad scrimmage.

Collins called the scrimmage "very important, to show that the fans are behind the team."

•Claggett

Winfield — Is expected to sign today.

"We all hit it off right off the bat," said Claggett of his AAU teammates. "About a week before I started making my visits, we all talked about maybe going to college together. We'd like to help St. Louis U. get to the NCAA Tournament."

Claggett, who averaged 22.3 points and 7.3 rebounds last year, was also heavily recruited by Iowa State, Colorado and Northern Iowa.

"I was really considering Colorado, but I chose St. Louis because of the distance," he said.

"He wanted to stay close to home," said Venice coach Clinton Harris. "St. Louis U. wants to start getting more into the metro east. (East St. Louis' Carl) Skinner might be one of their starters this year. Claggett has to be the best shooter in the area."

He also won't have to worry about his academic eligibility. Claggett scored well on the ACT and is a student in good standing. He plans to major in business or marketing at SLU.

"Coach Graver was one of the main reasons I chose St. Louis," Claggett said. "He's adopted the running style. I think they mainly want me as a shooting guard."

Like Hall, Claggett was glad to get the recruiting business done before his senior year. Wednesday was the first day high school seniors could sign letters of intent. After Hall signed, he proceeded to lead Venice to the state championship in 1990. Claggett hopes to do the same.

Jamie Rose Kozak, daughter of Jim and Charlotte Kozak of Madison, celebrated her third birthday on Oct. 29 with a party at her home.

A Muppet Babies theme was used to decorate the outside of the dwelling. Balloons, streamers and various Muppet characters, including Miss Piggy, Kermit the Frog, Fozzie Bear and Rolf the Dog, were among the decorations.

The honoree started her day by going to lunch with her mother and brother, Jonathan; grandmother, Rose Rice; and a great-aunt, Sophie O'Neil.

After lunch, portraits were taken of Jamie and Jonathan and a shopping spree ensued with Jamie receiving numerous gifts. Dinner followed.

Upon returning home, a pumpkin ice cream cake was enjoyed by Jamie Rose, her brother and parents and the honoree opened her gifts.

During this period he has ministered in 30 different countries and currently serves as president of Harvest Fields Missions.

Brand lived in South America for 5½ years with his parents, who were serving as missionaries in Peru. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Brand, former pastors of the Bethel Chapel Pentecostal Church in Granite City from 1962 to 1972.

Why Bifocals?

We recommend Varilux eyeglass lenses for people who need to see from near to far without wearing bifocals.

Varilux has a sophisticated, patented design that allows focusing clearly at any distance. It does away with the "window" seen in bifocals and the awkward bifocal line. We have the experience and equipment to fit this advanced lens, and we invite you to come and see the difference.
